

Mardan Site Compound

A temporary site compound is being established in Mardan, South Gippsland to support construction activities along the Marinus Link cable route. Works at the site are expected to begin from November 2026.

What it is

The Mardan Site Compound is being established at 1050 Mardan Road, Mardan to support construction activities along the Marinus Link cable route.

The Compound will provide facilities for construction crews, including site offices, amenities and parking.

Once the site is established, typical daily activity will include:

- ◇ Light vehicle movements as staff arrive and leave the site
- ◇ Heavy vehicle movements for deliveries and material transport
- ◇ Movement of construction vehicles and equipment within the site
- ◇ General site maintenance and housekeeping
- ◇ Staff pre-start meetings before travelling to various project areas along the cable alignment

Working hours

Works will be undertaken throughout November and December, between the following hours:

- ◇ Monday to Friday, 7am to 6pm
- ◇ Saturday, 7am to 1pm

If any works are required outside of these hours, we will let the local community know in advance.

What these works involve

- ◇ Site setup
- ◇ Survey works
- ◇ Civil works, including earthworks and preparation of the site
- ◇ Delivery and installation of temporary site offices and amenities
- ◇ Building and installation works
- ◇ Establishment of staff parking

The works will be completed in accordance with the current planning approvals for the site.

What to expect

- ◇ Construction crews
- ◇ Increased light and heavy vehicle movements
- ◇ Construction noise and dust
- ◇ Temporary traffic management including intermittent lane closures and reduced speed limits during construction hours
